

The Dreaming of Hinkley Point

A poetry reading by local author, Graeme Ryan with stunning original artwork by Georgina King

St Petrock's Church, Timberscombe

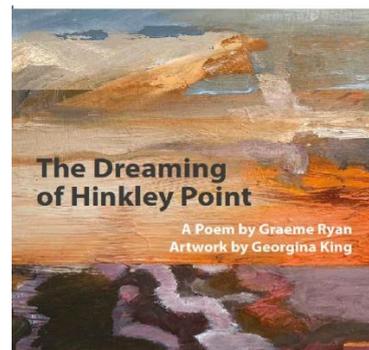

Monday 27th April at 6.30pm

Free Entry - donations welcome

Book on sale £15

Tea and Coffee served from 6.00pm

A new book of poetry and paintings inspired by Coleridge's Divine Imagination and his genius in Poetry, Philosophy, Ecology, Theology and Science: enthusiasms he sought to unify in order to bring wisdom and redemption to the world.

Via Kubla Khan's 'deep romantic chasm' The Dreaming of Hinkley Point time-travels in word and image from Coleridge's Somerset years on the Quantock Hills in 1797-8 (with Dorothy and William Wordsworth) to the 21st Century world of Hinkley Point. If Coleridge were to time-travel during those idealistic days at the birth of Romantic Poetry, what would he have made of the dark genesis of nuclear technology?

The Dreaming of Hinkley Point* is a riveting work of imagination, with the ingenious device of spinning Samuel Coleridge through time in a Somerset landscape familiar to him. – Katie Griffiths